

Dan Corcoran
CEO, Volos Portfolio Solutions

Dan Corcoran is the founder and CEO of Volos Portfolio Solutions, a software and index provider for options strategies. Dan's passion for quantitative finance led him to start Volos in 2014 and assemble the engineering talent to develop software for the investment industry of the future. He has experience in the hedge fund industry at SCS Financial, where he focused on manager research and developing volatility models. In order to grow Volos, Dan withdrew from Babson College, where he was a Weissman Scholar, and has also completed coursework at MIT, Olin College of Engineering, and Harvard University. Dan has presented options research in industry groups including the CFA Society of Boston, the Financial Services CIO Roundtable, QWAFEFW, and the Professional Risk Managers International Association.