

Michael P. Lebowitz, CFA

Economic and Investment Researcher, 720Global and Real Investment Advice

Michael P. Lebowitz, CFA, has more than 25 years of financial markets and risk management experience. Throughout his career, Michael has been involved in trading, portfolio construction and risk management involving some of the largest and most active portfolios in the world. In addition to broad institutional experience, he also built a successful independent RIA which allowed him to further extend his experience into the realm of investment management for individuals and family offices. Currently Michael provides economic and investment research to individuals and institutional clients through 720Global, and Real Investment Advice.